

Erratum

After the publication of the dissertation, a sentence open to misinterpretation was noticed:

Discussion, page 57, third paragraph: 'The low response rate among the children with a cleft lip and/or palate may be a result of the children being too severely disabled to answer the questionnaire properly.'

The sentence should have been written:

'One possible reason for the low response rate among the children with a cleft lip and/or palate is that some of these children may also have had developmental disabilities preventing them from answering the questionnaire properly.'
